

Exilis Therapy Information

Exilis is an FDA approved device that offers a non-surgical solution using radio frequency (RF) energy for tissue tightening and fat reduction. This procedure uses safe radio waves to stimulate and strengthen the collagen network which improves skin laxity and texture. At the same time it heats the targeted fat cells and speeds up the metabolic activity of the fat cells causing them to shrink.

Frequently asked questions:

What areas respond to Exilis Therapy?

The most frequent areas treated with Exilis Therapy for women include: face, eyes, jowls, neck, arms, "bra fat", thighs, buttocks, stomach, and knees. In men they include: "love handles", breasts, abdomen, face, jowls and neckline.

How many treatments will I need?

The number of treatments vary depending on the condition and area to be treated as well as your desired results. During your consultation we will advise you as to the number of treatments we recommend. Typically you can expect to have 2-3 treatments for the lower face/neck area and 4-5 treatments for the eyes and body areas.

What can I expect after treatment?

You may notice some mild redness that usually disappears a few hours after your treatment. You may resume normal activities immediately. You are also recommended to increase water intake and to engage in light physical activity like walking to maximize your results.

Why choose Exilis Therapy over other procedures?

With this treatment you can expect: No Downtime, No Anesthesia, No numbing cream, No after care, treats all areas of the face and body, results that last, scientifically proven and clinically tested worldwide.